In this year's initiative, Identità Golose founders Paolo Marchi and Claudio Ceroni want to express the theme of "Human Factor", which will be the focus of the three days in New York. This is a fundamental topic to express the philosophy behind cooking, and is also a global approach to the theme of contemporary conviviality. They invite the public to join in this edition and think about the alchemy that governs quality cuisine and the art of hospitality. As tell, this time there are two cities involved, and then there are two themes too. In Los Angeles, instead, everything during both the lessons and the dinner event will focus on Fire, the most ancient source of heat known to man.

The mission of Identità Golose has always been to showcase the greatest Italian and international chefs by promoting the passion of innovative cuisine. Since 2004, they have done so through their commitment in sharing the ideas and work behind it with food lovers, all while keeping up with the latest trends, thanks to the dedication of the best culinary names.
